THE REPORT
OF THE
PRESIDENT OF QUEEN'S COLLEGE, BELFAST,
FOR THE
SESSION 1890-91.

---

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY,

In accordance with the provisions of the Colleges Act, 8 & 9 Viet., cap. 66, sec. 20, I have the honour to present my annual Report to your Majesty, regarding the condition and progress of Queen's College, Belfast during the session 1890-91.

I. THE PROFESSORS.

The Professors and other officers of the College have discharged their duties with the utmost fidelity and zeal. The only change which occurred among them was caused by the resignation in October last of James Seaton Reid, Esq., M.D., who for thirty-three years had held the important chair of Materia Medica. The College Council, on his retirement being reported to them, unanimously passed the following resolution, in the terms of which I cordially concur:—"That the Council instruct the Registrar to express to Dr. Reid their deep regret that he has felt himself obliged by advancing years to resign the chair of Materia Medica, which he has filled since 1857, and to assure him that he carries their best wishes with him into his retirement." William Whitla, Esq., M.D., one of our own alumni, was appointed to the vacant chair by warrant under your Majesty's Sign Manual, dated 23rd October, 1890, and I have pleasure in stating that his election has proved a very happy and satisfactory one for the College.

II. THE STUDENTS.

The number of students in attendance at the College during the session was—in the Faculty of Arts, 184; in the Faculty of Medicine, 229; in the Faculty of Law, 29; in the Faculty of Engineering, 11; making in all (allowing for three students who attended in more than one Faculty) a total of 450. Of these 403 were matriculated students, and 47 non-matriculated. In the following classes there was a considerably increased attendance, as compared with the previous session:—Greek, Latin, Logic, Metaphysics, Chemistry, Natural History, Political Economy, Engineering, the Practice of Medicine, and Materia Medica.

The great majority of the students were, as might naturally be expected, natives of Ulster, but the College also attracted to its class-rooms men from each of the other three provinces of Ireland, from various parts of England and Scotland, from France, Spain, Italy, India, the United States of America, and Australia. The number of Freshmen, who entered for the first time, was 127.

As has been the case since the opening of the College, all the various religious denominations which prevail in the North of Ireland were represented among the students. An illustration at once of the breadth of the foundations on which the institution is based, and of the confidence with which it is regarded by members of the various Churches, is to be found in the fact that of the 5,000 students, speaking in round numbers, who have passed through it during the forty-two years of its history, about 3,000, have belonged to the Presbyterian Church (as might be expected in Ulster, where Presbyterians prevail so extensively), and 2,000 to other communions. It is almost unnecessary to add that there has never been within our walls the semblance of religious discord, or of any interference with the religious tenets of any student.

III. LADY STUDENTS.

Fourteen young ladies attended during the Session, being the largest number we have yet had. They were among the most attentive and diligent of the students. The following facts regarding the careers of the ladies who have pursued their education here are interesting and suggestive. Several of the Arts classes were first opened to them in the commencement of the Session 1882-3, and all the classes, in all the Faculties, at the commencement of the Session 1889-90. The numbers attending each session have been :—

1882-3,	.	.	.	12 attending.
1883-4,	.	.	.	6 "
1884-5,	.	.	.	8 "
1885-6,	.	.	.	8 "
1886-7,	.	.	.	9 "
1887-8	.	.	.	9 "
1888-9,	.	.	.	7 "
1889-90,	.	.	.	7 "
1890-91,	.	.	.	14 "

Many have attended in several successive Sessions.

Forty-five have attended, in all, since the classes opened. Of these twenty-one have taken the B.A. degree in the Royal University; three have taken the M.A. degree in the same, and two the degrees of LL.B. and LL.D.

One of our Professors, Dr. Redfern, speaking on a recent public occasion, used the following language, with which I entirely agree :—

"The continued successes of females, in the Intermediate and various University Examinations for some years past, forbid any further speculations as to their chances in intellectual competitions with men. No one would dare at present to suggest that they will not be able to hold their own in intellectual struggles on any subject, if they have equal advantages with men. And now that many of them have devoted themselves to the study and practice of medicine, there is a field open to large numbers of them, and entirely closed to men, where I believe it is impossible to estimate the vastness of the amount of human misery which they may relieve. I allude to India, for which Lady Dufferin has done so much. For the past two years I have had personal experience what ladies can do in the study of medicine, and, though it had previously fallen to my lot to recommend the award of high prizes to ladies at the University of London and the Royal University, I was not at all prepared for the zeal, ability, and perseverance which I have lately seen displayed by ladies in their study of the scientific branches of medicine in Queen's College. I am sure I could appeal to all the members of my classes for confirmation of the statement that in careful practical and laboratory work, and in thoroughly intelligent appreciation of the need and mode of application of such work, the ladies have highly distinguished themselves."

Ladies are not eligible for our Scholarships and Prizes. In a previous Report I called attention to this disability. The following petition on the subject, signed by nine lady Students and twenty-three male, was presented to the College Council in April last by Miss Galway :—

"To the President and Members of the Council of Queen's College, Belfast.

"We, the undersigned, beg to draw your attention to the following facts with regard to the position of women studying at Queen's College :—

"I. Women, though allowed to attend the Lectures at the aforesaid College, do not hold the legal status of Students.

"II. They may enter for Examinations ; but are not eligible for any of the Prizes or Scholarships. As this position is clearly an anomalous one, we think that in the interests of justice some change should be made.

"We therefore humbly petition you to take such steps as shall seem to you advisable to obtain for women studying at Queen's College a position equal to that which they now hold in the Royal University, in which all Degrees, Honours, Exhibitions, Scholarships, and Prizes are open to students of either sex."

I can only repeat my firm conviction, which I expressed in a former Report, that these disabilities ought to be removed. I trust that steps will shortly be taken for doing away with them.

IV. COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY HONOURS.

There has been the usual keen and healthy competition for the College Scholarships and Prizes during the Session and the answering on which they have been awarded has uniformly been of a very high character. These incentives to study are, I am persuaded, of the utmost importance to the College and to the cause of education. In addition to the Foundation Scholarships, we have the good fortune to possess several others of high value, which have been founded by gentlemen interested in the educational progress of the North of Ireland, and these have proved of great service not only in helping forward those young men who have been fortunate enough to gain them, but in furthering also the learning of those who have competed unsuccessfully. They have acted, in common with the Foundation Scholarships, as excellent stimuli to intellectual exertion and the prosecution of research. I refer here to the Dunville Studentships, founded by the late William Dunville, Esq.; the Andrews Studentship, established by public subscription in memory of the late Thomas Andrews, Esq., M.D., LL.D., D.Sc.; the Pakenham Scholarships, founded by the Rev. Arthur Hercules Pakenham in memory of the late Major-General the Hon. Hercules Robert Pakenham and the Hon. Emily, Lady Pakenham; the Sullivan Scholarships, founded under the will of the late Robert Sullivan, Esq., LL.D.; the Porter Scholarships, founded by the late John Porter, Esq.; and the McKane Medal, established under the will of the late John McKane, Esq., LL.D. Next session another prize, the Blayney Exhibition, founded out of moneys bequeathed by the late Lord Blayney, will be offered for competition.

This year the College had conferred upon it by Her Majesty's Commissioners for the Exhibition of 1851 the nomination to a new Scholarship of £150 per annum, tenable for two, or in special cases for three, years. It is "limited to those branches of science, such as physics, mechanics, and chemistry, the extension of which is specially important for our national industries," and is tenable by a student of not less than three years standing who indicates "high promise of capacity for advancing science or its applications," such student giving an undertaking "that he will wholly devote himself to the object of the Scholarship and will not hold any position of emolument during its continuance." The College Council nominated Mr. Benjamin Moore, B.A., for this Scholarship this year. He proposes, under its provisions, to pursue in the University of Leipzig the study of chemistry, in which he has already attained high distinction here.

Our Students continue to gain a large share of the Degrees and Honours of the Royal University of Ireland. At the Examinations held during the past year, 273 of them passed its various Examinations. In Arts, 53 of them passed the First University Examination, 35 the Second University Examination, 38 obtained the Degree of B.A., and 8 the Degree of M.A. In Medicine, 38 passed the First Medical Examination, 29 the Second Medical Examination, 23 the Third Medical Examination, and 26 the Final Examination, obtaining Medical Degrees. In Law, 4 passed the First Examination in Law, 4 obtained the Degree of LL.B., and 7 the Degree of LL.D. In Engineering, 4 passed the First Examination, 1 the Second Examination, while 3 obtained the Degree of B.E. Our alumni also obtained a large number of the Studentships, Exhibitions, and other Honours of this University, as will be seen by the list printed in the Appendix to this Report, which also records a number of notable distinctions which they have gained during the year in Cambridge and other Universities.

V. DISCIPLINE.

The discipline of the College continues to be excellent. No Student was charged before the Council with any offence during the year.

I regret to report that one of the Deans of Residences, to whom is committed, under the Statutes, the care of the religious and moral well-being of the Students belonging to their respective Churches, was removed from us during the Session by the hand of death. I refer to the Rev. Joseph W. McKay, D.D., by whose demise the Methodist students have lost a valuable counsellor, guide, and friend. Up till the time of his death, I have reason to believe that he discharged the duties of his office with his customary fidelity. The Rev. S. Edward Busby, LL.D., the Church of Ireland Dean, reports to me that he was duly furnished, as usual, at the beginning of the Session with a list of the names and town addresses of the students belonging to his communion, and that he carefully looked after them, inviting each to attend the lectures which he delivered on the Bible, the Prayer-book, and the Evidences of Christianity. "I have the pleasure," he adds, "of reporting most favourably of those students while under my observation, and in passing through many of their residences, in the course of my pastoral visitation, I have not heard of anything which I might find cause of rebuke." The Rev. A. C. Murphy, D.Litt., the Presbyterian Dean, reports to me that he conducted a class during the Session for the benefit of the students placed under his charge.

"The subjects of study," he says "were Stalker's 'Life of Christ,' and Tennyson's 'In Memoriam.' The weekly preparation of the members of the class was most commendable; and at the written examination, held on the 9th of May, the answering was of a very high order of merit. The following prizes were awarded:—

"Class I., . . . . .	1. Wm. A. Wilson.
	2. Andrew Boyd.
"Class II., . . . . .	3. R. K. McElderry.
	4. Jos. W. Kernohan.

"I may be permitted to add that the advantages of such a class would be greatly increased, if attendance were made part of the College regulations, and if some encouragement in the shape of prizes were offered to the more successful students."

The office of Dean for the students belonging to the Association of Irish Non-subscribing Presbyterians is at present vacant, owing to the departure from Belfast of the Rev. Alexander Gordon, M.A., who has held the office since the year 1880, and has discharged its duties with great diligence. The Rev. T. H. M. Scott has, meantime, looked after the students connected with this body.

VI. THE COLLEGE BUILDINGS.

The College buildings and grounds, the various Museums and Laboratories, the Library, and the Botanic Garden, have been maintained in good order during the year. The Examination Hall has been heated by a system of hot-water pipes, to the greatly increased comfort of all who use it. The Histological Laboratory has been enlarged and otherwise altered. A Ladies'-room has been fitted up in the Medical Buildings, and several other improvements have been effected. The Lords Commissioners of the Treasury have been pleased, I am happy to say, to sanction a grant towards the providing of a still greater boon, viz., the erection of a new set of Chemical Laboratories and Practical Class-rooms, with the necessary adjuncts, part of which may, I hope, be ready for use at the commencement of our next Summer Session. The want of these buildings has been so long and so keenly felt, that I cannot but confidently anticipate that their erection will prove to be the inauguration of a new era in the history of our School of Chemistry.

VII. BENEFACTIONS.

We have during the year received several benefactions, not only valuable in themselves, but acceptable as showing the interest of the donors in our welfare. Among these I may specially mention a collection of standard medical works, presented to our library by Samuel Musgrave, Esq., M.D., formerly of Lisburn.

VIII. THE COLLEGE SOCIETIES.

Although the various societies which the students have formed amongst themselves do not, strictly speaking, come within the purview of this report, yet, as they have been established under the sanction of the College authorities, and form no unimportant factor in the life and training of the place, I may be permitted briefly to refer to them. In the oldest, the "Literary and Scientific Society," which is almost coeval with the College itself, the students have not only an opportunity of cultivating the important art of ready and effective public speaking, but of coming into closer touch with each other than is possible in the class-room. It had a prosperous session last winter under the presidency of Mr. R. D. Megaw, M.A., and the Right Hon. A. M. Porter, Master of the Rolls, most kindly delivered an address to the members on "The Training and Duties of the Forensic Advocate," which was received with the greatest interest, not only on account of its own intrinsic worth, but because of his being a graduate of the College, and a former member of the society. There are also a flourishing "Medical Students' Association," a "Glee and Madrigal Society," and Athletic Clubs of various sorts, in the welfare of all which I feel it at once a duty and a pleasure to take an interest.

IX. RE-UNION OF THE GRADUATES.

I have the utmost pleasure in referring here to a most gratifying indication of the deep interest which the graduates of the College take in their alma mater, and of the wide extent over which its influence has been diffused. I refer to a Dinner of the Graduates, which took place on March 19th last in the Examination Hall, amid much enthusiasm, the great room being thronged with members of the various learned professions, and others engaged in other avocations, who have been trained in this College and came together from all parts of the country to acknowledge their indebtedness to it, and express their desires for its continued prosperity. The interest of the occasion was heightened by the presence of your Majesty's two going Judges of Assize for the North-east Circuit—Lord Justice Fitzgibbon and Mr. Justice Gibson. Not a few of our northern nobility and gentry, together with the Mayor of Belfast (himself a distinguished Queen's College man), and many of the leading citizens, showed by their presence their regard for the College, and their appreciation of the work which it has accomplished and is continuing to accomplish. The interest of the occasion was much heightened by the fact that on the same evening the Belfast Queen's College men resident in London held a similar reunion there, with two of themselves, Sir William MacCormac and Mr. R. A. McCall, Q.C., respectively occupying the chair and vice-chair. The high place in the regard of its alumni which the College has gained and kept, and the extent to which it has permeated the public life, not only of Belfast and the North of Ireland, but of places far beyond, was strikingly exemplified by this double event.

X. UNIVERSITY EXTENSION WORK.

It affords me much satisfaction to add to this account of the College proper a brief notice of the work which is now being carried on in close association with it during each winter by the "Belfast Society for the Extension of University Teaching." All its lectures are delivered by university men, most of them our own graduates, and thus many of the advantages of university teaching are brought within the reach of persons of all classes and of either sex who are engaged in the ordinary avocations of life. During the past session the Extension classes of English Literature, Chemistry, Astronomy, and Political Economy were attended by 1,417 regular students, besides a large number of occasional members. At the close of each term examinations were held and prizes and certificates of proficiency awarded. The several lecturers expressed themselves as being much pleased with the attention and progress of their classes. I cannot but think that the working out of this scheme is calculated to confer great advantages on the city of Belfast, and to extend to a still wider area than the ordinary lectures of the College can reach, the benefits of that liberal education which this seminary was established to impart to all classes of your Majesty's subjects.

XI. THE FUTURE OF THE COLLEGE.

In former Reports I have called attention so specifically to the various wants of the College, that I feel it unnecessary to recapitulate them here. It much requires more buildings, several additional Chairs, and enlarged equipments of various kinds. I can only trust that these will be granted ere long. If the State does its part generously to this great institution which its wisdom has founded, so that it may not be crippled or hampered in its work, and if the citizens of Belfast and the inhabitants of the North of Ireland, for whose benefit the College was erected, who enjoy the benefits of its presence among them, and who believe in the wide diffusion of the highest culture among all classes, without distinction of sect or creed, will show their interest in the work which it is doing for the benefit of their sons and daughters, and their appreciation of its past labours and successes, by extending still more widely that list of its benefactors on which the names of some of their number now shine so conspicuously and honourably, I believe that the facts and figures which I have embodied in this Report incontestably prove that there are in the College the capacity and the fitness to render such service to the higher education of the city and province as they cannot otherwise get—a capacity and fitness which only require free scope and sufficient means to be afforded them to enable the College, as years roll on, to fulfil, more illustriously than ever, the high purposes for the advancement of which it was built, and which, I venture to think, it has already subserved neither unworthily nor unsuccessfully.

XII. STATISTICAL TABLES.

I have appended to this report a list of the names of the Visitors, the President, the Professors, the Deans of Residences, and other officials of the College, together with a series of tables showing (1) the Number of Students matriculated in Session 1890–91; (2) the Numbers and Religious Persuasions of the Students who have entered in each year since 1849; (3) the Numbers and Religious Persuasions of the Students who have attended in each year since 1849; (4) the Numbers attending in each Faculty during the Session now ending; (5) the number of Students who came to the College from each of the provinces of Ireland, and from other places, during this Session; (6) the Ages of the Students in attendance; (7) the Number of Lectures given by each Professor during the Session, and the Number of Students attending each Class; (8) the names of the College Scholars and Prizemen for this Session; (9) a list of Degrees, Diplomas, and Honours obtained by Students of the College at the examinations of the Royal University of Ireland in 1889; (10) a list of sundry Students who have, since 1st January, 1881, obtained distinctions in universities other than the Royal University of Ireland; (11) a Table showing the Length of Service, Salaries and other Emoluments of the Professors and Officers of the College; (12) a List of the Benefactors of the College since its foundation, with an account of their benefactions; and (13) an account of the Receipts and Expenditure of the College during the year ending 31st March, 1891.
